Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on July 7, 2009 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hastings et al. (US 5,626,849).

Hastings et al. teach the use of (-) citric acid in a dietary supplement for the purpose of weight loss. See the abstract, column 2, lines 34 and 35, column 3, line 57 and claims 1-20. The use of the claimed compound for any purpose in the body would inherently ameliorate or treat inflammation, considering that there has to be some type of inflammation in the body at any given moment.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Clouatre et al. (US 6,447,807).

Clourate et al. teach the use of the potassium and sodium salt of (-)-hydroxycitric acid in a sustained release formulation as weight loss and appetite suppressant agents. See the abstract and column 8, lines 17-40. The above reference makes clear that the salts of (-) hydroxycitric acid have been previously used in a pharmaceutical formulation as weight loss and appetite suppressant agents. Such use would inherently treat and ameliorate any inflammation in the body.

Applicant's arguments and remarks have been carefully considered, but are not deemed to be persuasive. Applicant has amended the claims to "chronic inflammation". As it was discussed previously and evidenced by the attached article to the previous office action, the inflammatory process in the body can be caused with any types of imbalance, which can be chronic or non-chronic. Therefore, the human body is always dealing with certain type of inflammation which can be silent and not obvious to the eye.
